The Gardener.

The Gardener.

I thought to make a gurden, for the spring was in my heart,
And I heard the call that comes to all, and longed to have a part;
In turning sod and drinking in the breath of growing things;
In sprouting, hudding, blossoming, in songs and whirr of wings.

I supposed to make a garden, one had only to begin—
To dig and rake; ah, sad mistake! I learned it was a sin
To step outside the door or dare to take a spade in hand,
Without a well-constructed plan conforming to one's land.

I must know what sort of garden: English, Dutch, Italian, wild.
Old-fashioned, walled—I stood appalled—shrub, rock or modern. Piled Upon my chairs and tables, on my desk and shelves and floor.
Were garden magazines from friends who dally brought me more.

Members of Club on Qui Vive.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Club will take place, as usual, or consecond Monday in March. Members are requested to be on hand promptly at 430 P. M. in the audience hall of the club.

The chairman of the election says: "Five new members will be elected to the board, to take the place of five rotiring members, as directed by the constitution of the club. After the election of the five new members to the board, the officers will then be elected from the officers will then be elected from the officers will then be elected from the full board of fifteen, for the ensuing year.

"Every member of the club is now on the 'qui vive' in regard to a proposed constitutional amendment regarding the election of members to the club. A copy of this proposed amendment has been sent to every member, and the question will be voted on next Monday. The object of the amendment is to place the election of members to the club in the hands of the board. It is at present in the hands of the club at large.

"So greatly is opinion divided that it is difficult to learn how the matter now stands. But it is well known that the old members of the club, who saw the election of members controlled by the board in its 'Garly history, are unreservedly opposed to again bestowing such control on the board. A paramount reason is that it then would be almost impossible to get persons to serve on the board, because of the responsibility that

DO HONOR TO WOMAN WHO HAS WRITTEN MANY SWEET HYMNS

Eighty-Fifth Anniversary of Fanny J. Crosby to be

During the last forty-one years Fanny I. Crosby has composed more than eight thousand hymns. Some of them have been translated into many foreign tonguest and at home and abroad have been sed with great auccess. The debt that he church owes to the sweet singer cannot be estimated. Her life has been spent loving service for the good of all, and broughout it has been calm and sweet. The public in general will be glad to learn that she is still hale and strong; that she has not yet given up her chosen work, and that she will shortly publish her complete autobiography, a book which and that she will shortly publish her complete autobiography, a book which promises a wide hearing.

Fanny Crosby, will be eighty-five on March 24th. Scores of churches are already planning to honor her by setting apart Sunday, March 26th, as Fanny Crosby Day, Baptist, Congregational, Methodist, Lutheran and Presbyterian Churches already are at work preparing a programme of Miss Crosby's hyans for use at the public service; and pastors have signified their intention of preaching sernous on some phase, of Christian hymnology. They also propose to make Fanny Crosby a gift of honor, as a fitting tribute to the influence of her life and hymns. Those who have been uplifted by "Rescue the Ferishing," "Safe in the Arms of Josus," "Blessed Assurance," and "Saved by Grace," could do nothing more appropriate.

The plan for a Crosby Day has Fanny Crosby's Unqualified sanction. When it was presented to been said:
